

Call for Expression of Interest (EoI) for a digital toolkit for core skills

Dear Madam/ Sir,

International Labour Organization (ILO), a UN agency, is finalising a Global Framework on Core Skills for Work and Life to respond to the changing world of work and the pandemic crisis. We plan to develop a Digital Toolkit for Core Skills with the aim to provide guidance and good practices for the successful adaptation of the framework in national education and training system and integration of core skills in curricula, training delivery and assessment to improve the quality and relevance of training, retraining, recognition of skills and qualifications.

To support the development of the Toolkit, we invite Expression of Interest from institutions and/ or consultants. ToR for the assignment is attached.

Should you find the assignment interesting, please do send us a motivation note and a profile of your organization along with the names and CVs of potential experts who would work on the assignment by 30th September 2020.

The note should specifically highlight your suitability for the assignment and experience in developing policy guidance, operational strategies and practices of how core skills can be adopted in national education and training systems, specifically in:

- curricula and qualifications;
- training delivery, assessment and certification; and
- career management and skills recognition systems.

In case your organization does not undertake such assignments, we would be grateful if you could share this call for EoI with other reputed institutions and consultants.

Should you further query, please contact Jongwoo Lim (limjo@iloquest.org).

With kind regards,

Ashwani

Ashwani Aggarwal

Team Leader for the Workgroup (WBL, apprenticeships and RPL)
Skills and Employability Branch, Employment Policy Department

T: +41 22 799 6857
E: aggarwal@ilo.org

Route des Morillons 4
CH-1211 Geneva 22
Switzerland

ilo.org | Twitter | Facebook | LinkedIn | Instagram